Matthew 3 Questions:

How does John the Baptist's role as an 'ambassador' for Christ challenge our understanding of how we should represent Jesus to others?

In what ways might modern Christians be tempted to trust in their religious heritage or accomplishments rather than true repentance, similar to the Pharisees and Sadducees?

How can we distinguish between genuine repentance that produces fruit and mere outward religious observance in our own lives?

What are some practical ways we can 'bear fruit in keeping with repentance' in our daily lives and relationships?

How does Jesus' baptism, despite being sinless, demonstrate His identification with humanity, and what implications does this have for our own Christian walk?

In what ways might the church today be at risk of turning relationship with God into a 'business transaction', and how can we guard against this?

How does the concept of being 'baptized with the Holy Spirit and fire' challenge our understanding of Christian transformation and empowerment for ministry?

What are some signs that indicate a believer may need to seek the 'baptism of the Holy Spirit' for empowerment in their Christian life and service?

How might a deeper understanding of the Holy Spirit's role in empowering believers change our approach to ministry and evangelism?

In what ways can we cultivate a greater openness and sensitivity to the Holy Spirit's leading in our daily lives and decision-making?
